DAILY DOUBLE WORTH WHILE

WEST COVINA, Calif.

(AP)—Daily double:

Two gunmen, apparently working independently, entered the same bank at almost the same moment Thursday, police said.

Neither gave any indication of being aware of the other. Witnesses in the West Covina branch of the United California Bank said one gunman demanded money of teller Grace Lund, 30. The other similarly addressed teller Yvonne Christopher, 26, at another window. Both then had personal items. Between them they collected about $4,000. The bank said upon leaving the bank one got into an automobile and drove away. The other departed on foot.

B.C. Fraud Case Opens

VICTORIA (CP)—George

Hankinson testified Thursday he could have shown a profit on deals between his company and George E. P. Jones, suspended B.C. government planning commission chairman if he had not been fired by the Chrysler Corporation of Canada before the deals were struck.

Jones pleaded not guilty before Judge Monaghan Thursday to charges on two charges of dealing with "frauds upon the government."

He is charged specifically with having accepted a benefit from Hankinson in allowing the "withholding of collection" by Hankinson's firm, Pacific Chrysler Products Limited, of $1,577 in the purchase of a car in October, 1963.

The second charge alleged he accepted a 1964 convertible at a price lower than cost to the company. Jones is free on bail. Hankinson, president of the now-defunct Pacific Chrysler, testified under protection of the Canada Evidence Act.

He outlined both deals and his reasons for withholding a $1,577 cheque issued by Jones Oct. 30, 1963, on the purchase of a 1963 car valued at $2,995, and the subsequent trading of Jones' 1963 car for a 1964 convertible last Feb. 7.

Hankinson said if he had continued the two deals with Jones to completion he would probably have come out with "a $500 profit."

He is charged with conferring the benefits on Jones.

Roads Clear After Snow

Snow fell throughout the Interior overnight, but roads in the Kelowna area are in generally good condition.

The department of highways reports that highway No. 97 is bare and good with the odd slippery section.

The Vernon area roads are also in good shape with the occasional slippery section with some sanding.

In Falkland two inches of snow is reported, and there is some sanding.

Two inches of snow also fell in the Revelstoke and Rogers Pass areas with plowing and sanding operations under way. There was just a light flurry in Kamloops and sanding dealt with that.

The Fraser Canyon received a fall of four inches reported between Boston Bar and Lytton. Plowing and sanding is being carried out with some slippery sections.

Other areas report, Penticton: bare and good, Princeton: Half inch of snow. Allison Pass: Ten inches of snow in the past 24 hours. Some frosty sections. Plowing and sanding with winter tires required.

Police clashed at dusk with about 800 anti-Tshombe demonstrators around a four-story-high Christmas tree in the Piazza Colonna.

A dozen were injured in Naples in a similar demonstration by 500 leftists.

Tshombe was given a 20-minute private audience with the Pope Thursday shortly after his arrival from Leopoldville, the Congo capital. Tshombe is on his way to New York to take part in the United Nations debate on the Congo. He is expected at the UN Saturday.

The Vatican took extreme care to avoid giving an indication for support for either side in the Congo warfare. Instead, the Pope appealed to all the Congolese for peace.

Tories Taken Up On Demand For Expression Of Opinion

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson today told the members of the Conservative party that they must express their opinion on the flag issue.

He said that the Conservative party must express its opinion on the flag issue. He said that the Conservative party must express its opinion on the flag issue.

The prime minister said he was taking the Conservative party to task for not expressing its opinion on the flag issue. He said that the Conservative party must express its opinion on the flag issue.

He was happy to oblige in the hope that his speech would hasten the end of the debate. (See story Page 2)

The prime minister rose to speak just after the Conservatives had moved their second amendment of the current stage of the flag debate. This was proposed by William M. A. Thomas, a Middlesex West, Ontario, Conservative M.P.

Mr. Pearson said he was taking the Conservative party to task for not expressing its opinion on the flag issue. He said that the Conservative party must express its opinion on the flag issue.

He said that the Conservative party must express its opinion on the flag issue. He said that the Conservative party must express its opinion on the flag issue.

Mr. Pearson said the question before the Commons is a committee report, not a government motion. Every M.P. has a duty and a right to vote on where he stood on the matter.

Mr. Pearson said the maple leaf flag will not eradicate Canada's past, but salute the future of a united Canada. "Those of us (in the government) of British origin do not forget our past and traditions."

"Act like it," an unidentified Conservative shouted. "I will let my record speak for that," the prime minister replied.

NOW INDEPENDENT
The past should not prevent the country from adapting to its future. Canada no longer belonged to the British Empire but was an independent part of the British Commonwealth of nations.

"An independent Canada now feels it should have the symbols of its independence." He recalled serving under the Union Jack in British and Canadian forces in the First World War.

"None of us saw the Canadian Red Ensign in those years. That's not right," Gordon Churchill (PC-Winnipeg South Centre) shouted angrily.

Mr. Pearson denied his statement, adding that the Canadian Red Ensign did not replace the Union Jack as the Canadian flag until a cabinet order was passed in 1945.

He said 11 of the 15 members of the Commons flag committee, including representatives of all five parties, favored the maple leaf design.

He referred sarcastically to Mr. Diefenbaker's statement in October that the Conservatives would accept any flag supported by 13 committee members.

"If only two more members had agreed, we wouldn't need a plebiscite."

When the committee was established to select a design the Conservatives had laughed and sneered at the government for "abandoning" its original three-leaf design, for retreating from their flag policy. But the committee's work and the results of it justified the decision to set up the committee.

GEORGETOWN (AP)—British Guiana headed into a governmental crisis today as Premier Cheddi Jagan said he would not resign. Governor Sir Richard Luyt consulted with London to determine how the Marxist leader could be forced out.

"I will not resign," Jagan told a press conference. "The British government will have to force me out."

Luyt asked the British government for an order permitting him to summon the new legislative assembly without the premier's consent. Some sources close to the governor said Jagan's tenure would end with the calling of the assembly.

Traditionally, premiers resign when defeated in elections. But Jagan charged fraud in the vote Monday which cost him his majority in the assembly. His decision not to resign was backed by a vote of the executive committee of his People's Progressive party.

Luyt held separate meetings with Jagan and two opposition leaders, Forbes Burnham of the People's National Congress and Peter D'Aguilar of the United Force.

Burnham, who is expected to succeed Jagan, announced Wednesday that he and D'Aguilar Bomb Blast Fails To Hinder Che's Tirade Against U.S.

UNITED NATIONS (AP)—A myriad explosion rocked the area of the United Nations headquarters building today while Che Guevara, Cuban Minister of Foreign Affairs, was delivering a speech in the General Assembly.

At first police said the explosion went off in front of the building, but later they said it did not occur there.

As the explosion went off a Cuban exile tried to drag down the Cuban flag flying in front of the headquarters building. The woman demonstrator was seized by police and UN guards.

The explosion came as Che was chanting Cuban exiles picked up the UN building. They were protesting the speech by Guevara.

The blast could not be heard in the assembly hall and Guevara did not interrupt his speech.

Spaak made a sharp defense today that Congolese rebels had threatened to "devour" white settlers by Africans against the hostages just before his own rescue mission.

Spaak told the assembly that the United Nations Security Council to reply to charges that the U.S. and Belgium showed bias against blacks in carrying out a mission to rescue white held prisoners by Congo rebels at Stanleyville.

"I am at the end of my patience," he said. "I have suffered the most evil days of my life. I have listened to distortions, insults and untruths. I have seen a display of mistrust and hatred that is painfully close to that type of racist feeling that has been so much denounced and fought against."

He said that the United States was carrying on military operations against the people of Viet Nam, Laos and Cambodia and was oppressing the people of Puerto Rico.

"We are faced with a case in which the peace of the world is endangered," he said. "The lives of millions of human beings are constantly threatened and subject to the whim of the American invaders."

Spaak told the assembly that the United Nations Security Council to reply to charges that the U.S. and Belgium showed bias against blacks in carrying out a mission to rescue white held prisoners by Congo rebels at Stanleyville.

"I challenge the representative of Congo Brazzaville to submit the slightest vestige of proof, of evidence, to support such an infamous accusation."

The Congo Brazzaville is a former French colony which neighbors the troubled Congo Leopoldville, a former Belgian colony.

HAD TO ACT
Spaak said that if Belgium and the U.S. had not acted, they might have had to live with the knowledge that hostages who could have been saved had been abandoned to their deaths.

"What we have done, we have done and we are willing to account to our own consciences," he denied angrily that only whites had been rescued in the operation. Some 400 Indians and Pakistanis and more than 200 Congolese have been brought out, he said, and evacuation of the Congolese was stopped only at the request of the Leopoldville government.

Colder But Sunny Valley Forecast

Sunny skies, clouding over this evening, with snowflurries tonight, mainly sunny Saturday and a little colder tonight is the prediction for the Okanagan by Vancouver weather office, today.

In Kelowna, Thursday, the high-low temperature was 44 and 27, compared to a high of 25 and a low of 8 a year ago. Low tonight and high Saturday at Penticton is expected to be 28 and 32.

While skies were sunny at many British Columbia locations this morning, a disturbance from the Gulf of Alaska will bring overcast cloud and snow to most of the province later today.

Cold air will move southward again following this disturbance and more frost is expected in coastal sections tonight while sub-zero temperatures are likely in the northern Interior.

Considerable clearing is looked for in the cold air on Saturday the weather office said.

CIVIL RIGHTS CASE DISMISSED

Grand Jury Decides Now

MERIDIAN, Miss. (AP)—The

U.S. justice department today prepared to present its evidence to a federal grand jury against 10 men freed of charges in connection with the slaying of three civil rights workers.

Federal attorneys were stumped Thursday when U.S. Commissioner Esther Carter ruled out a purported confession at a preliminary hearing. When the justice department refused to proceed, she dismissed the conspiracy charges against the men, thus freeing them. They were among 21 white men arrested Dec. 4.

It will be up to U.S. district judge Harold Cox at Jackson to convene the grand jury. Robert Owen, justice department attorney, said, "we will ask that a grand jury be called as soon as possible." The dramatic moment in the hearing came with the first and only witness, FBI agent Henry Rank of Atlanta. Owen asked the agent if he had interviewed Barnett, one of 10 men the FBI had charged with taking part in the slaying.

Rank testified he interviewed Barnett, 25, of Cullen, La., and formerly of Meridian, Nov. 19 and 20.

"Did you obtain from him a signed confession?" Owen asked.

"I did," Rank said.

Then Owen asked the agent how he obtained the statement and Rank began: "I talked to Mr. Barnett and we discussed various things. . . . Here the battery of 14 defense lawyers interrupted with objections that the testimony was hearsay.

They argued that if Barnett had confessed, then he should testify. Owen countered that Barnett was a co-defendant and his presence at the hearing had no connection with admissibility of the evidence. At this point Owen said he was prepared to present "the signed confession to the commission."

But Miss Carter ruled against him. In Washington, a justice department spokesman said Miss Carter's refusal to accept the FBI agent's report was "totally without precedent."

Speak Up On Flag Views, Tories Ask Of Liberals

OTTAWA (CP)—Progressive Conservative MPs have told the government they'll keep the flag debate going until Prime Minister Pearson and members of his cabinet put their views on the Commons record.

A succession of Conservative speakers Thursday evening hammered away at the theme argument: whether the flag should remain on a spinning wheel or be replaced by a single red maple leaf design.

The Commons divided on the Conservative demand after Opposition leader Diefenbaker, making what he called his final point, said that a maple leaf banner could divide the nation.

After the Conservative motion for a plebiscite had been rejected, Mr. Pearson asked whether the Commons was ready to vote on the committee report. After some 200 speeches on the matter, said Mr. Pearson, perhaps the House could come to a final decision.

"We want to hear from the prime minister who has not spoken on this subject for six months," replied Gordon Campbell, Conservative House leader.

Robert Coates (PC—Cumberland) said later that many of the cabinet ministers also should speak on the question.

KELOWNA SCHOOL BOARD BRIEFS

The school board at Thursday night's meeting congratulated its members re-elected by acclamation recently. Five trustees, C. D. Buckland, board chairman, Tom Carter, Ken Fulka, Mrs. E. R. Pelly and Dr. C. B. Henderson, were re-elected for two-year terms.

Fred Macklin, secretary-treasurer, said there were some 20,000 cu. yds. of fill material in a hill to be removed from the Lombardy Park site in Bankhead. Mr. Fulka suggested perhaps the city might be interested in using some of it.

Mr. Macklin said the board now had permission from the RCMP vehicle inspector in Kamloops to make use of an old bus as a spare providing some $700 improvements were made to the vehicle.

B.C. School Trustees Association asked the board that its central office be kept informed on all aspects of information concerning a regional college. It said it wants to keep posted on the situation in all areas.

The board approved the appointment of A. I. Jones as head teacher at West Rutland elementary, and Mrs. A. M. Campbell, head teacher, North Glenmore elementary. Both appointments are temporary from Jan. 4, 1965.

Ken Fulka, building committee chairman, reported on progress of construction now underway in the district. The roof is completed on the A. S. Matheson school, sub-floors are being laid and wiring still underway; the administration building should be complete today; North Glenmore, window frames are in, glass expected Monday; Glenmore elementary addition, now heated and sub-floors in; Sunnyvale school, laminated beams up, waiting for roof decking.

Westfair Foods, Winnipeg, replied to the board's letter seeking information on the availability of property now belonging to W. H. Malkin Ltd., in Kelowna's north end. The parent firm said while some land may be for sale later, it is unable to meet their future needs at the moment. The board is seeking a location for its repair and maintenance department and decided to look elsewhere.

A two-day music workshop was approved by the board. The B.C. Music Educators' Association will bring world famous trumpeter Rafael Mendez here for the clinics and performance Feb. 5 and 6 and also the Royal Canadian Engineers band from Chilliwack to assist Mr. Mendez. Vern Bryant, association president, said about 300 students from Kamloops to Princeton are expected to attend the workshop. The board praised the undertaking but were a little critical that they were not informed earlier of plans.

C. E. Sladen, education committee chairman, said no applications were received to recent advertisements for primary teachers.

Mr. Sladen also said, his committee was asking S. J. Gowan, adult education director to consider the possibility of setting up an in-service course to develop librarians to staff new school libraries.

F. J. Orme, district superintendent of schools, said the Martin Ave. elementary school will be closed all day today because an emergency situation closed off all water to the school and it "can't operate without water."

Trustee Mrs. E. R. Pelly said plans for Education Week were coming along. She said the last committee meeting heard from the Council of Women and service clubs on plans. She told of their intention to produce a pamphlet similar to the one for the referendum and would require the board's assistance on it. The committee meets again Jan. 12.

The board gave permission for two Kelowna secondary school pupils, members of the future teachers club, to attend a coast conference Dec. 21 to 24.

Mr. Orme told the board the district was asking 4.8 teachers over entitlement. He said it was a happy position and wasn't entirely due to good management but there was an element of luck.

Arbitration hearings between the teachers and the board will get underway Dec. 18 at the Kelowna courthouse or in council chambers, Mr. Macklin said.

City Trustees Blast Union On Demands

The chairman of the school board's salary committee Thursday night blasted demands made by employees of the Okanagan Valley School Employes' Union. The board is now negotiating with the union for a 1965 contract. The contract expires Thursday, December 31, 1964.

A G. Pollard said most of the claims are unacceptable and indicated the board is preparing a counter-proposal to present at the next joint meeting, perhaps before the end of the year.

He told the school board the union is seeking "an enormous increase" in wages and fringe benefits.

He gave an example a custodian with a paper now earning $321 monthly would jump to $399.

"This to me is a tremendous board's salary committee Thursday night," Pollard said.

"Another example," he said, "made by employees of the Okanagan Valley School Employes' Union, would jump from $331 to $451, well over a 25 per cent negotiating with the union for a 1965 contract."

He said the demands average wages from 20 to 25 per cent more in 1964.

A bus driver working about 140 hours a month is now being paid $145 monthly. The union is asking for $262 monthly. This is absolutely ridiculous," Mr. Pollard estimated if the agreement came into effect, this year it could possibly cost the district $150,000 or more.

"It would be something like 70 cents per hour increase across the board. We're not crazy, although they seem to think we are," he said.

'Biggest' Test Faces Soviet Ice Squad

MONTREAL (CP) — Out of bed, into their uniforms and out to the rink to practice.

That's the preamble today for the Russian national hockey team before the players gather at the Forum tonight to face probably the greatest challenge of their short hockey careers.

The Soviets take on Montreal Junior Canadiens of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A League, reinforced with six seasoned pros, to start an eight-game Canadian tour. They play Canada's national team Sunday in Toronto.

The pros from the power-packed Quebec Aces of the American Hockey League include goalie Gump Worsley and defenceman Doug Harvey, both former National Hockey League players.

The Russians have never had to face talent of that kind and the game is being regarded as a test of how they might fare against players of NHL calibre.

Subsidy Claimed Essential For Edmonton's Survival

EDMONTON (CP) — Professional football must be subsidized in Edmonton if Eskimos are to remain in the Western Football Conference, club shareholders were told Thursday night.

Walter H. Sprague, who resigned after guiding the Eskimos through a wholesale rebuilding program in 1964, his successor Hugh McCall and club treasurer Jack Baker were unanimous in this stand in reports to the meeting.

Baker said the club lost $39,815 on 1964 operations despite $43,000 from a post-season $100-a-plate dinner and deferment of $26,200 in stadium capital debt charges by the city helped slash the deficit.

"A year ago the Eskimos lost $33,500 but much of this was met by reserve funds of $23,000. Before 1963 season tickets are sold the Eskimos will require interim financing of "up to $75,000 or more" secured by directors' endorsement of notes, said Baker.

PREDICTS IMPROVEMENT
Sprague said fans could look forward to continued improvement in the Eskimos next season after the club's fine 1964 finish.

But city businessmen will have to give greater support to the club which still is about $70,000 away from breaking even, he said. "It is a problem of the new executive to pare expenses yet still attract more fans."

In 1964 the club faced $45,000 to $50,000 in non-recurring expenses associated with a shake-up last February in which the coach was fired, the directorate was streamlined and later 80 players were brought in during an extensive search for personnel required to form the core of future clubs.

"But the days when a club could build up a reserve have passed and the best we can look forward to is breaking even," said Sprague. "It is possible to achieve this and rebuild Eskimos into a power."

McCall, 43, father of four and a native of Montreal, said the club expected to bring in 10 new imports next season. "We're looking for quality, not quantity and in this the coaches will be trying to build at spots which were weak last season."

Hicke Leads Cleveland In Upsetting Leading Aces

QUEBEC (CP) — Cleveland then held off the Aces for their Barons, paced by Billy Hicke's first victory against Quebec three times in the first period Thursday night and coasted to a 6-1 American Hockey League victory over Quebec Aces.

Hicke, sent to the last-place Barons by Montreal Canadiens last week, supplied what proved to be the winning goal in the opening frame and counted again in the finale when Cleveland stretched its lead to 6-0.

Frank Martin and Bob Elliott also scored for Cleveland in the first period. Ed Hockstra scored Quebec's lone goal midway through the third.

Jean-Guy Morissette turned aside 30 Quebec shots in Cleveland's net while Gump Worsley kicked out 20 at the other end of the ice.

VICTOR RESPECTS VANQUISHED IN COMPETITION

Sports "Cure for Racial Prejudice"

EDMONTON, CP — Sports graduated from high school in the years that followed the last cuts. Import Charlie Hennigan, now an all-star forward with the Boston Bruins of the American Football League, was also cut but before he left he got Ward a football scholarship at Northwestern State.

Ward broke a collarbone but continued to see action as a peace-maker and peacemaker. He transferred to Washington State because he couldn't stand the Louisiana heat.

Another frustrated collarbone forced Ward to drop back to Washington State. "You'd never believe it, but I think all those back and collarbone injuries were the result of my ignorance of how to wear my shoulder pads," he says. "I didn't know until I tried out with Eskimos again in 1962 that I was wearing my pads backwards. I guess no one ever thought I needed help learning how to wear pads properly."

TORRE TENDON
Ward's football career ended in 1962 when he tore an Achilles tendon during a game of football with a number of Eskimos. It hasn't bothered him since.

Hawks Find Their Wings Score Encore Over Bruins

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Most hockey players spend the better part of a game on the bench, waiting for the coach to send them on.

But not Bobby Hull. His station is on the ice, waiting for Chicago coach Billy Reay to take him off.

It's two bad the games aren't 60 minutes long says Reay. "If they were, I'd play Hull for 60."

That probably wouldn't be fair to the other National Hockey League teams. Hull is already causing them enough pain in 60 minutes.

Hull worked overtime again Thursday night against Boston Bruins in the only NHL game played. He worked his regular shift, took an extra shift of two with other lines, killed off penalties, played on the power play and scored his 21st goal, the winner in Chicago's 3-1 victory over the Bruins.

Hull's goal, coming in his 33rd game, broke a 1-1 tie midway through the second period with the Hawks charged their second victory in as many nights with three goals in the final 11:19 of the game before 8,119 Boston fans.

The win moved the fifth-place Hawks within two points of New York Rangers, trailed 6-1 by Chicago Wednesday night.

Hull, aroused by his demotion from Hull's line to the third unit, opened the scoring in the first period. Murray Oliver tied it at 15:39 of the second period. Hull's rebound by a Helpless Ed Johnston, who has replaced Ray as Hull's centreman, scored his seventh and eighth of the season within a 30-second span in the third and fourth periods. Johnston added his eighth of the campaign and third in two games.

Hull scored after the referee signaled a delayed penalty against Boston left winger Ab McDonald. Down after making two saves, Johnston was helped against Hull's drive.

SHUTTLETALK

By MARI McFADDEN

To the victors went the spoils—in this case the D. G. Stull trophy and the L. C. Butler Challenge Cup—the former to the winning team in the ladies' doubles handball and the latter to their counterpart in men's doubles. Competition for these trophies was held in the Kelowna Badminton Club hall on Sunday, Dec. 6, with players from Salmon Arm, Revelstoke and Kelowna.

Before proceeding further, I must say that I enjoy winning a cup but always find it difficult to write about it and stick to the double balance between "I won" and "I lost." We don't really deserve it. The one out there who said, "How true!" to the last observation, please stand up! Fortunately, the problem does not arise too often.

Suffice to say my partner, Louise Brooks, and I fell heir to the Stull rose bowl and will be keeping it in silver polish for the rest of the year. I should add that one can do almost anything with a good partner.

Stiffest competition came from the defending champions May Tanaka and Gillian Paynter, a pair of young players who have improved tremendously in the last two years and whose greatest strength lies in their lightning reactions and ability to retrieve shots that the opposition feel have been safely "put away." May and Gillian were runners-up this year, losing just one game.

In the men's doubles the games ended in a three-way tie. The loss of a coin sent Chris Larson and Ted Wey into the final while Bruce Stevens and Ken Larson played Harry Strland and Bruce Bennett to decide the second set of finalists. Defending champions Bruce and Ken won 21-18 then went on to defeat the heavily handicapped finalists 21-14. Ken Larson and Bruce Stevens are another pair of young players who have improved steadily and whose style of play is now confident and aggressive.

One incident marred an otherwise very enjoyable day. Roger La Vole, one of the entrants from Salmon Arm, suffered a dislocated knee cartilage while attempting to retrieve a shot and was taken to the Kelowna General Hospital for treatment. He returned later with the knee in place and the pain somewhat abated but an operation will be required in the near future.

While looking for some tid-bits of information on the tournament I found that the Stull trophy was first won by a Kelowna pair, G. Motowyo and Val VanAckeran, in 1934 and that the Summerland team of George Fudge and E. Cardinal won the Butler Cup in 1932 to secure first place among the list of winners.

There will be no more tournaments in the area this year. The first tournament in 1965 will be the Shuswap Open held in Salmon Arm Jan. 22-24.

New to the lighter things of life—what else but a party? The badminton club will get in the swing (literally) on Saturday, Dec. 12, with festivities due to start at 8 p.m. Tickets for this dance for badminton club members and their friends are being sold by the club executive and also will be available at the door.

The decoration committee, looking a little like Santa's gnomes, were busy Tuesday night making small bells using gold and silver tinsel. If the last party can be used as a gauge, this one should be fun for everyone. I remember at the last party some of the "young things" put on an impromptu exhibition of the newer dances. Who knows—maybe this time they will invent one called "The Shuttle!"

Stamps Elevate Assistant Coach

CALGARY, CP — Jerry Williams, assistant coach of the Calgary Stampede, today was named head coach of the Western Football Conference club. Williams, former player and coach with Los Angeles Rams and Philadelphia Eagles of the National Football League, resigned last month after Rogers Lebew was named general manager.

Lebew said he could not work under a man who previously had worked under him.

Terms of the contract were not disclosed. Lebew said it was "more than a one-year contract."

He said the appointment was approved unanimously by the Stampede board of directors.

Williams, a native of Spokane, Wash., joined the Stampede in February, this year. He was responsible for coaching the club's defensive secondary.

Dixie bruised his right knee in a 1963 game against British Columbia Lions. It did not heal properly and he injured it again at the start of the 1964 season but managed to finish the year missing only one game.

Special X-rays two weeks ago showed the cartilage was torn.

Group Lessons For Ski Novices

The Kelowna Ski Club has arranged a special "Learn to Ski" package deal for beginners of all ages who are club members. The deal provides six group lessons for $6.

This should take the beginner from the ski shop to the Stern Christie runs. Instructors are all certified Ski Alliance graduates.

Lessons are given Saturdays and Sundays at 11 a.m. and students and instructors meet at the "Bell" near the chalet after getting a ticket at the chalet office.

Lessons began last weekend but there is still room for more learners.

Williams Tagged With Suspension

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Texas boxing commissioner Alton Erickson said Thursday he has suspended indefinitely Cleveland Williams, heavyweight boxer who was shot by a highway patrolman last month in Houston.

Erickson said he took the action Monday, preventing Williams from boxing in other states as well as Texas.

Williams, 31, is recuperating in a Houston hospital from bullet wounds received Nov. 23 in the incident.

Williams had been scheduled to fight Ernie Terrell for the World Boxing Association's heavyweight championship. The WBA said Wednesday Williams was being dropped from its ratings for an indefinite period.

Is Dave Pugh Right? Do We Want Plebiscite?

It is with some regret that we notice that the local member of the House of Commons, Mr. Dave Pugh, is still tightly tied to the apron strings of Opposition Leader John Diefenbaker. Mr. Pugh is numbered among the 30 of the 96 Conservative members who still unswervingly follow the "faltering John."

It is recognized in the east that Mr. Diefenbaker is able to muster only 30 sure supporters, even on an important vote in the House.

Perhaps it is a commendable trait to give steadfast loyalty, no matter what, as Mr. Pugh does. But surely there is a point beyond which one need and should not go. And surely, too, that point has been long since passed with Mr. Diefenbaker.

Mr. Pugh last week spoke in the flag debate and, from the report sent this newspaper by its special correspondent in Ottawa, his speech was more time-consuming than informative.

Mr. Pugh demonstrated that he is sitting right up beside the driver of the Diefenbaker bandwagon when he advocated that the flag question should be put to a vote of the people through a plebiscite. This newspaper has said on more than one occasion during these past weary months consumed by the Conservatives in their flag filibuster, that a plebiscite on this issue would be the most decisive act Parliament could take, such a plebiscite would split this country and probably irrevocably.

Mr. Pugh, in the report of his speech, was quoted as saying that what he was advocating represented what people in his riding had told him. Quebec. During the past six months, we, living here in the riding, have not heard a single—repeat, a single—Okanagan-Boundary voter state that in his opinion there should be a plebiscite on the flag issue.

Obviously, we have not been talking to the right people.

Or, Mr. Pugh hasn't been. Or, his supporters here told him what they knew he wanted to hear.

But, even granting there may—repeat may—be more Red Ensign advocates than Maple Leafers in this riding, this does not mean that all Red Ensigners favor a plebiscite. We seriously doubt the validity of the statement that the people of Okanagan-Boundary want a plebiscite on the flag issue. Either now or at the next general election.

This newspaper has considerable personal admiration for Mr. Pugh. Indeed on two occasions, we advocated his election. However in recent months we have become somewhat disillusioned as more and more it becomes evident that Mr. Pugh is but a thin shadow of Mr. Diefenbaker. Mr. Pugh would serve his constituents better if he would just stop clinging so tightly to the Diefenbaker apron-strings and learn to stand on his own feet.

TWO-GUN DIF RIDES AGAIN

Varied Reasons Attracted White Congo Mercenaries

LEOPOLDVILLE (AP)—Some came for adventure and some for pay. Some came for a chance to revive the cause of a peaceful Africa, as they see it. These and other reasons were cited by Premier Mire Tshombe's "white mercenaries"—several hundred volunteers—gathered in Leopoldville to fight against the rebels in the Congo.

Although they don't speak a word of French, they prefer to be called by the term Les Mercenaires—it means to add class to their trade.

What are they like?

Take Louis Jeremy Spencer, 25, a son of a rich north of England family.

Pay meant next to nothing to him. Adventure did and he died with a rebel bullet in his head as he sat in the front line in a ditch, bravely directing the battle with a sword.

Grizzled and tattooed veterans of many wars, whose every served word is a curse, still go misty-eyed when they talk of him.

They miss the way this tall, slender Englishman gave orders. They miss, above all, his ice-cold nonchalance in the face of danger.

SOME DISAPPROVED

Not there were grunts of disapproval when he was first promoted to lieutenant at the mercenary training base at Kamina in North Katanga province. Among many who had joined because they were civilian militia, Spencer seemed the most misfit of all.

The last months of fighting their way 600 miles to Stanleyville, capital of the rebel Congo People's Republic, has thinned mercenary ranks down to a lean, mean residue.

For almost every one of the 200 or so soldiers from South Africa or Rhodesia still in the Congo, a would-be mercenary fighter has been put toward a south-bound plane for home or has deserted without waiting for his pay.

There were drunks, drug addicts, coffee shop cowboys, homosexuals and cowards, says May Michael Moore, the tough chief of Tshombe's mercenaries, who is a British-born South African.

"If we had only hired angels, we'd have never got together the labor force needed for this sort of job," he said.

Hoare, 44, a veteran of war behind the Japanese lines in Burma and in Tshombe's once-revolutionary state of Katanga, has little more than his own personality to back up his orders. That and the facts of his officers, such as Fred Peters, a personal friend of Hoare's.

Peters is second in command of 57 commandos, a collection of near-thoroughbreds who these days usually get chosen as the spearhead of dangerous missions because of their cool discipline under fire.

Their commander, Capt. Ian Gordon, a Briton who now lives in Johannesburg, South Africa, never raises his soft voice. His men will follow him, as another officer says, "through the front door of hell and out the back way."

Gordon, like several of Hoare's most trusted officers, fought for Tshombe in his secessionist state. They formed the small nucleus who recruited the others through advertisements in South African and Rhodesian newspapers.

Men flocked to sign on for base pay of £130 (£300) a month as volunteers. Officers earn up to three times more. Mercenaries also are paid about $10 a day, danger money when they are in battle.

Only half of their pay is in foreign currency sent to their banks at home. The rest is paid in Congolese francs which cannot be taken out of the country.

GIVEN TWO WEEKS' LEAVE

Each man is entitled to two weeks' paid home leave at the end of his six-month contract.

Each man also has a life insurance policy for $20,000 payable to his next-of-kin. Nearly 20 families of Hoare's men already have qualified.

CHINESE KILT SHY

HONG KONG (AP)—The Hong Kong Scotti's Bagpipe Band is 100 per cent Chinese—and modest. Says its leader: "We play the music; we imitate the Scottish style of marching, but we simply cannot wear the kilt. We Chinese are far too shy."

National Identity

The constantly recurring question of our lack of a national Canadian identity is in the news again.

This time, at a university seminar on communications held in Windsor, Mr. Walter O'Hearn, of the Montreal Star and Mr. George Bain, an Ottawa correspondent, deplored the United States news media's impact on Canada.

Mr. Bain said that in "this blacker moment" he was sure the invasion of news from the United States so overwhelmed us he didn't see how Canadianism could survive under the "northward flow of ideas and myths."

Just exactly what we can do to nurture this Canadian identity whose loss so distresses Mr. O'Hearn and Mr. Bain they didn't mention.

Does a national identity mean wearing fur hats from Hallowe'en to Good Friday or going insane over the Grey Cup game and neglecting the parliamentary crisis in Ottawa? We do not know.

In Europe, the American national identity is said to be provided by the tourists and the free-spending government agencies who seldom get any thanks for their efforts. We wonder if that kind of thing is what Mr. Bain and Mr. O'Hearn wish for Canadians.

Surely the national identity of any people is nothing more than the characteristics that separate them from others. The Canadian characteristic is that they, normally, cannot be distinguished. The fact that we have grown to maturity with the growth of rapid, world-wide communications has given us an international flavor that is in itself an identity.

The past isolationism of Americans was part of their national identity, arising out of the isolation of the middle west which was cut off from the flow of ideas originating in Europe, Asia or even the eastern American seaboard. The English are said to be insular and this, too, is left over from the days when the English Channel was a moat.

Instantaneous communication in the modern world has smudged many of the sharp lines that in the past identified nationalities, particularly in the Western world. An abstract painting can rarely be tagged with its country of origin; a new building in Paris is not much different from one in London, New York or Montreal; a popular tune becomes common coinage; a fashion appears in one country and is copied within a week in 10 others.

So, what price a national identity?

—Hamilton Spectator.

In Passing

It's a pity there's not an antibiotic for curing a person of being neurotic.

The reason a person's evaluation of himself is much higher than that placed on him by others is that he appraises himself on the basis of what he plans to do tomorrow and others judge him by what he did yesterday.

No doubt the biggest liar in the whole world is a Russian politician who is also an ardent fisherman.

TO YOUR GOOD HEALTH

Appendix Unwanted So it Goes As Well

DR. JOSEPH G. MOLNER

Dear Dr. Molner:

Please explain the reason for removing a good appendix during a gall bladder operation. Does the appendix interfere with the function of the liver?

—H.A.

No, it has nothing to do with the liver.

This is the reason: The appendix, a relatively unnecessary organ, has an ornery tendency to become inflamed or infected. When the abdomen is surgically opened for some other reason, it is simple to remove the appendix, too. It is "an ounce of prevention," a means of avoiding, at little effort, what might otherwise mean an operation later on.

It is true that we have no way of knowing in advance whether that particular appendix will cause trouble. But appendicitis remains frequent enough so that incidental removals of the appendix without question avert trouble later on for a good many people.

The original operation, of course, would have to be in that specific area—removal of a gall bladder because of stones, a hysterectomy, removal of ovaries with cysts.

This is done, however, only when there is no infection in other abdominal structures. Empyema of the gall bladder, or infection in a Fallopian tube, or similar conditions would dictate that the appendix be removed. When infection is present, the least that is done, the better.

The exact purpose of the appendix, by the way, still eludes us. This has been studied for a long time. I have recently read technical papers suggesting that it may have some role (perhaps subsidiary) in the antibody system of the body.

Yet we have no indication—and it should have become apparent by now—that the appendix is necessary. Perhaps it is similar to the tonsils: useful in some modest way, but not vital.

Dear Dr. Molner: I have heard that Negro babies are born white, then turn dark. Is this true?

Do all white babies have blue eyes when first born, then get their permanent color later?

—J.H.

Negro babies are not white at birth, but they may have any skin shade from light tan to quite dark. They may also, like white babies, have quite a reddish cast to the skin for the first few days.

Yes, all white babies have blue (sometimes somewhat violet) eyes at birth. If the eyes become brown later, this is caused by changes of pigment in the iris.

Dear Dr. Molner: I had surgery over a year ago for a tubal pregnancy, and the scar itches constantly. Is there anything to be done for it? It is driving me mad. It looks terrible and is raised, wide and very red.—MRS. M.M.

Itching is a form of pain, and sometimes more unnerve than shaver pain.

It is not too uncommon as scar tissue becomes gradually firmer, but it may, as well, indicate continuing irritation of some sort—mild infection, or a bit of suture material under the skin which have not worked their way free.

Your description raises the question of whether a keloid is forming, that is, an overgrowth of the scar tissue. A keloid is not dangerous but it can be annoying.

Have your surgeon examine the scar.

Police Beat Loss Lamented

MONTREAL (CP)—The gradual disappearance of the policeman on the beat in big cities has its drawbacks, says Assistant Director Walter Boyle of the Montreal police department.

"We have lost our sense of closeness with the public and our greatest source of information," he said in a speech.

"Time was when a citizen would go to good old Bill or Sam and tip him off that so-and-so was spending much more than he earned. People trusted him."

Now, with the emphasis on mobility and the increasing use of radio-equipped cruisers, the human element is being sacrificed, he said, adding that people have a tendency not to want to get involved.

OTTAWA REPORT

What Exactly Does Quebec Want?

By PATRICK NICKOLSON
Daily Courier Ottawa Bureau

The monologous mumble of dissonant in Quebec has been continuing, sometimes crescendo and sometimes piano, for more years than we have known Confederation. In the past two years its increased volume and its echo of the violence of 1837 and of the oft-forgotten 1858 have been heard and heeded as perhaps never before by the rest of Canada.

What exactly does Quebec want, and why? This question is answered more fully and more persuasively than ever before in these words by an English-speaking professor in our French-speaking province.

The most general answer to this question is that today's demands are shaped by the social revolution in Quebec. This has to be elaborated, however, if it is to be a comprehensible reply. The social revolution is roughly the sum of industrialization, urbanization, expanded educational opportunity and the impact of mass communications, especially television.

It has led to a transformation in the image of the good life and the good society that most French Canadians had. Instead of a vision of self-sufficiency, rural families linked together by parish institutions, asking only that the state protect them from outside influences, there has been substituted a basically urban model one that resembles substantially that held by North Americans from Texas to Toronto.

QUEBEC EXPLAINS

That quotation is taken from the introduction to a selection of extracts from speeches and writings by Marcel Faribault, just published in book form under the title "Quebec states her case" by Macmillan of Canada. The introduction was written by Michael Oakes, former professor of political economy at McGill University in Montreal, and now head of the Research Department of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police in Ottawa and Bismarck. His co-author of this symposium is J. H. Scott, former dean of McGill's Law School and now a member of the B & B commission.

The 23 selections admirably cover the broad spectrum of Quebec's views, from the calm and reasoned to the emotional and extreme. Their authors range from Premier Jean Lesage to Separatist leader Marcel Chaput, from the widely respected financier Marcel Faribault to the fiery Marcel Faribault.

Faribault, a veteran of war behind the Japanese lines in Burma and in Tshombe's once-revolutionary state of Katanga, has little more than his own personality to back up his orders. That and the facts of his officers, such as Fred Peters, a personal friend of Faribault's.

built to the FLQ Manifesto. Marcel Faribault, President of the General Trust of Canada, does not minimize Quebec's ambitions, but insists that she is not separatist at heart and that she is geographically essential to Confederation. He points to Quebec's pride that Expo of 1967 be staged in that province and hopes that, guided by the FLQ, it will be an emblem of Canada's economic, social and intellectual realizations.

English-speaking Canadians will be surprised to learn that they are accused of arrogant domination of the lands of which must be shattered by the so-called Quebecois. But they are perhaps not aware of the extent to which French-Canadians have always been on the receiving end of orders in their own province. But this history may lay the blame on an educational system that perfect for 18th century French-Canadians but disastrous in the context of a 20th century industrial society.

Vernon Financing Reviewed In Report By Treasurer

VERNON — James Griffin, treasurer, City of Vernon, recently submitted to the public a report and financial statement of revenue and expenditure covering a 10-month period from Jan. 1 to Oct. 31, 1964.

Mr. Griffin said his report "would only deal in generalities as any attempt to prepare a detailed report on all the activities of this department would consume time and would not serve any useful purpose at this time."

Mr. Griffin continued that a projection of the current general fund indicated that expenditures for this fund will be contained within the annual 1964 budget.

Taxes levied against property represents the greatest single source of revenue and a continuing cost our greatest single expenditure. For the current year 65.00 per cent of general fund revenue is obtained through the municipality holding a 20.00 per cent of expenditures is educational costs. This expenditure must be raised through direct taxation and of the total taxation represents 43.75 per cent.

The tax levy for this year amounts to $1,033.31 of which $880.24 or 85.20 per cent has been paid as at Nov. 30. Amounts for the previous year were $946.66 per cent.

The outstanding debt as at Dec. 31 will be $1,100,000. This includes debtures issued for the purpose of making a grant to the Kelowna Association in the amount of $33,000. Watermain extension under short term capital borrowing of $17,000, and local improvement financing of $128,000. The city's share of local improvements is approximately $52,000.

Included in the total outstanding debt is one amortizing fund issue which matures in 1968 in the amount of $18,000. These debtures were issued in 1964 to finance the purchase of the present airport site. The requirements of the sinking fund set up to amortize maturity calls for an annual payment of $1,000. The earnings of this fund from investments have exceeded the amortization requirements and the fund assets over requirements will approximate $8,123.

Unused borrowing power as at the end of the year will be $1,000,000. In determining this figure consideration has been given to the authorized borrowing of $1,000,000 for the current year and 50 per cent of the year of $1,000,000. The earnings of this fund from investments have exceeded the amortization requirements and the fund assets over requirements will approximate $8,123.

This certificate was obtained this year Mr. Griffin said. It again observed that careful consideration should be given to the matter of borrowing for local improvements. The certificate states that the annual operating and maintenance costs of the municipality may be required to be reduced if possible, thus leading to a saving of $1,000,000. This includes debtures issued for the purpose of making a grant to the Kelowna Association in the amount of $33,000. Watermain extension under short term capital borrowing of $17,000, and local improvement financing of $128,000. The city's share of local improvements is approximately $52,000.

Wide Influence Noted Of School District 22

VERNON — J. W. Inglis, chairman, school board, school district 22 addressed the recent Stewardship meeting on the happenings in the school district.

Mr. Inglis said "the district stretches from the west side of Okanagan lake through to the Kelowna beyond Cherryville school, north encompassing Maple Lake, Sugar Lake and Trinity Valley areas and south beyond the Army Camp limits. The total square miles of the district are 23,000 but most of it is mountain ranges."

Trustees for the district this year have been Vernon and surrounding area—Dr. W. Harwood, J. W. Inglis, Mr. W. H. Fleming, Mr. M. G. Abbey, Reed, Lumby and surrounding area—H. J. Call. Mr. W. H. Fleming was board representative to the Vernon Regional Commission, the Vernon and District Safety Council and school districts planning and studies must continue towards providing adequate accommodation for the normal increase in enrolment of students and the demands for extra space created in the senior secondary level by changes in curriculum.

To make use of available Federal funds for Vocational Education and to satisfy future building requirements, the Board will be planning a referendum before the owner-electors of this school district within the next 12-18 months," he said.

The 1964 budget shows income $1,554,722. Broken down: Province of B.C. 56.5 per cent—$876,422. City of Vernon: 23 per cent—$357,583. Surplus and recoveries of expenditure, 3.9 per cent—$60,822. Cloverdale Church is Scene Of Rowat-Krenn Ceremony

White and gold chrysanthemums decorated the Cloverdale United Church on November 28 at 1 p.m. for the wedding of Joyce Elizabeth Krenn and Calvin Charles Rowat.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rupert Krenn of Kelowna and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Rowat of North Surrey, B.C.

Reverend J. N. Green officiated at the double-ring ceremony and the pastor, Mrs. Wanda Hinchey, of Vancouver sang "The Lord's Prayer" accompanied by Mrs. Leander of Cloverdale.

Given in marriage by her father the bride wore a gown of heavy white tulle featuring a wide-length bodice with a short train caught below the shoulder line at back with a bow. Her fitted bodice was styled with a rounded neckline and elbow-length sleeves and both skirt and bodice were trimmed with rose lace appliques. Two organza ruffles with a pearl head her four tiered veil of tulle reached to her knees and she carried a bouquet of white and pink roses. Her bridesmaids wore white dresses and carried bouquets of white and pink roses. The groom wore a dark suit and a white shirt with a bow tie. The wedding party was composed of the bride, groom, bridesmaids, and groomsmen.

Mrs. Paul Manthorpe of Kelowna was the matron of honor and the bride's close attendant. She wore a short gown of pale green tulle brocade featuring a leaf-shaped skirt and short sleeves. Her bridesmaid was composed of two matching tiers and skirt and she carried a bouquet of pink roses and white carnations.

The groom's cousin, young Neil Rowat of North Surrey was ring bearer and acting as best man was Neil Rowat, brother of the groom. Ushers were Neil Christensen of Vancouver and Paul Manthorpe of Kelowna. The bride's bridesmaids were Mrs. Leander of Cloverdale, Mrs. Hinchey of Vancouver, and Mrs. Green of Kelowna. The wedding was followed by a reception held in the United Church Hall. The mother of the bride received wearing a smart green dress with white and black accessories and a corsage of golden mums. She was assisted by the groom's mother who chose a two-piece dress of green printed silk, a pretty hat of off-white velvet, and a corsage of white carnations.

Peter Schiefel of North Surrey was master of ceremonies and the toast to the bride was proposed by Frank Prunkl of Vancouver, who was answered by the groom. The best man gave the toast to the bride and read telegrams of congratulation.

ANN LANDERS

Father Awarded Child Only If Mother Unfit

Dear Ann Landers: I've been married a few years and I can't figure out why I'm so unhappy. I'm a good mother and a good wife, but I feel like I'm being punished. I don't know what I've done wrong. I'm just a poor girl who got married too young.

—TRYING TO GET AHEAD
Dear Trying to Get Ahead: Let it be and make no apologies. Far worse than poor table manners is a child who is ashamed of her parents.

Dear Ann Landers: Add me to the list of people who never thought I'd end up writing to Ann Landers. Here I am, ready to lie down on my couch, and nobody is more surprised than I.

I went with this man for three years. And when I say "went with," I mean I devoted myself to him, body and soul. He was never out of my thoughts. I invested part of my inheritance in his business, which failed. When he was down on his luck, I let him move into my apartment and I moved in with my aunt for three months.

Last January he went into a nutty business that clicked. Instead of giving back my $3,000, he bought himself a new car. Last night he gave me the BIG news. He has decided he's not good enough for me and I should find someone who is. His last words were, "Baby you deserve the best and I hope you get it."

I hear he is seeing a wealthy widow who is old enough to be his mother. Should I invest in a private eye and throw the book at him? — CRUSHED.

Dear Crushed: What book? Dun and Bradstreet? It's the only book that would interest the jerk.

If he married that rich widow for her money he'll earn every dime of it. It's the hardest work there is.

Minor Hockey LA Holds Wind-Up Meet

The 1964 wind-up meeting of the Kelowna Minor Hockey Association was held at the Memorial Room, December 7, and was well attended. It is estimated that over 100 people were present.

Records of the Bake Sale held at Dwyer's Drugs on November 28 were very favorable. The money raised from the sale helped in the purchase of masks and guards for minor hockey players.

Mrs. Robinson was elected as auxiliary to the men's director. It is the feeling of the association that through this position, Mrs. Robinson will be able to help in the development of the minor hockey program.

SIMPLE INSTRUCTIONS AND HAPPY SLEIGHING

Much Fun In Years Ahead If Christmas Sleigh Built

A new sleigh at Christmas time is an old tradition. Your children will get plenty of thrills and perhaps a spill or two when they try out this Christmas present. Made of rugged plywood with waterproof glue, this sleigh will last through years of outdoor use.

Cut from one sheet of plywood:

You can cut this two-piece bottom from one 4 ft. x 8 ft. sheet of 1/2 inch plywood and still have a piece left over that will make a good sled. The sides of the sleigh are 4 inches by 21 inches, shaped in the front with 1 inch strip from runners centered on the 1/2 inch plywood edge with an overlap of 1/4 inch on each side. Framing for sleds is 2 inches by 2 inches dressed for finished 1 1/2 inch.

Joins Glued and Nailed

The stop projecting from the front bar of the rear sled cuts through the maximum movement and prevents front sled from breaking. All joints and contact surfaces should be glued with waterproof glue and secured or nailed. Both sides are covered with 1/2 inch plywood decks but front deck is 2 inches short at rear end to avoid the stop.

Spacer Attached to Rear:

The second deck of spacer is attached securely to the front deck of the rear sled. This 1/2 inch diameter disc is left with the top deck is cut and attached to rear sled with 2 inch overlap all round the spacer. Then the disc is carefully placed in position between the layers and clamped while the fast glue is drilled through the three layers.

Then disc can be screwed and glued to deck. If desired, an air lock hole should be bored to take the wheel. The hole should not be more than 1/4 inch long and fit easily over the wheel. Countersink screw hole by fast threads. Otherwise hole should be drilled to take bolt with tight fit.

Plane Sharp Corners

Sharp corners should be planed off front top edge of both rear cross bars. Notches should be cut in the extension to the front bars for good foot grip. Countersink fasteners. Screws should be used on all the lower points. Lag screws may be used on top deck and cross bars. An occasional coating of heavy duty grease between disc and upper deck will keep the steering working easily.

Drawer Pulls For Handles

A heavy duty drawer pull may be screwed to the center of each outer edge of the rear sled as handles for the rear rider. Front rider can hold on to the steering rod. Remember to use waterproof glue on

Best Use of Space Marks Expert Home Design

In planning the interior of a home the best use of space marks the skillful architect or designer. The interior of the house must be divided according to the various functions of its occupants. The eating, sleeping and living areas make up the basic divisions of every house. The difference between the various designs consists mainly in varying the size of rooms and arranging them in different patterns.

The number of possible sizes and groupings is practically unlimited. But buyers also have a wide range of preferences. One will insist on a large living room with a fireplace—another one wants a house with a family room—a separate dining room is essential to the way of life of a third family, while their neighbors prefer the intimacy of an eating space in the kitchen.

A second bathroom, a den, lounge or sewing room, laundry facilities in the kitchen instead of in the basement, all these features have special meaning for certain home owners.

BASEMENT ADVANTAGES

The majority of Canadian homes are provided with basements. In our colder climate the digging of a basement is the most practical way of getting the footings below the frost line while at the same time providing additional space at low cost.

In our older homes the basement was often only serviceable in part, either because the ceiling was too low, the floor left unfinished or not properly drained, or because lighting was inadequate. In more recently built homes greater attempts have been made to make the basement truly functional.

House designers are increasingly striving to make the basement area an integral part of the home rather than just an excavation with four concrete walls where junk and spider webs collect. With sufficient head clearance and if properly dampproofed and waterproofed the basement space is ideal for a utility room, laundry room, second washroom, or for a playroom, a den or even an extra bedroom, while still allowing sufficient space for storage purposes.

Providing easy access to the basement from the outside is one means of increasing its usefulness. Even in the more temperate zones in Canada, where basementless houses are common, a house with a basement can offer decided advantages.

However, a basement may not always be practical where the sub soil contains solid rock, where serious drainage problems exist or where the building site is too steep.

The basementless house is more popular in the warmer sections of Canada where there is no severe or prolonged freezing period. But basementless houses can also be designed for colder climates.

With proper insulation around the edges of the house at ground level, they can be kept warm and comfortable. A low-lying basementless house may have greater eye appeal than a house with foundation walls projecting above ground. The sleek flowing lines of the single level house without a basement provide the architect with greater freedom of design. The distinctive ranch style homes that we find in some of our better subdivisions are often of the basementless type. With proper footings, basementless homes need not be limited to one storey houses. There are some attractive two-storey homes built without excavation.

Project homes have also been built without basements permitting a measurable economy in cost. The use of compact heating units has assisted in the mass design of such homes. Storage space normally provided for in the basement is located in a separate closet or in a closed-in space attached to the garage or carport.

Falling Trees Not So Good If They Collapse In House

Falling trees are fine in forests and on lawns but Christmas trees that to craves and base can be topple are the bane of the Yuletide festivities. One way to cut this annual nightmare is to build a stable tree-stand out of plywood. Then you can fasten the tree to those broken-down nails and branches.

The plywood tree stand is lightweight, rigid and can be decorated with ease. It can be painted, stained, or covered with tin foil or colored paper. The stand shown will support an 8 or 9 foot tree. If your tree is smaller, the size of the stand can be adjusted accordingly. To fit tree, trim the stem for the first 12 inches and then have to fit easily into the 2 inch opening.

Three inch squares of 1/2 inch plywood drilled with 2 inch diameter holes form the interior supports to barrel. These should be set about 9 inches apart. Note that two sides of barrel are 34 inches wide to overlap the 3 inch square which attached to 3 inch square barrel supports. All sides of barrel are of 1/2 inch plywood 18 inches long. All 4 triangular braces are the same size and shape cut from 1/2 inch plywood and are attached in same last positions against each barrel wall.

All contacting surfaces and edges are glued together and should be clamped while drying. After barrel and braces are put together, exact position on base is marked and barrel edges glued to base. Quarter round strengtheners giving

Canada, U.S. And Britain 'Lag' Behind In Productivity Growth

WASHINGTON (UPI) — One of the United States and Britain, and the United States and Japan, have been lagging behind in productivity growth, according to a report by the U.S. National Association of Manufacturers.

The three-day conference under the auspices of the Organization of Economic Cooperation and Development, continued today.

Prices remain stable. He said Canada and the U.S. so far have managed to maintain fairly stable prices, but it doesn't answer if unemployment is the price of that.

Took Car With Him For Dip In Pool

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Before setting down for the night Wednesday, salesman T. F. Flanagan, 67, left his motel room and drove to buy a magazine. As he returned, Flanagan mistook a swimming pool patio for two cars for an empty parking lot. In he popped the car. The car skidded on the wet paving and dived into the pool. Flanagan waded ashore as the vehicle sank.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

(Top Record-Holder in Masters Individual Championship Play)

Quiz: You are South, both sides vulnerable. The bidding has been:

North East South West
1 ♠ Pass 1 ♠ Pass
2 ♠ Pass 2 ♠ Pass
3 ♠ Pass 3 ♠ Pass

What would you bid now with each of the following four hands:

1. ♠KJ92 ♥KQJ4 ♦75 ♣A28
2. ♠K7652 ♥A273 ♦— ♣642
3. ♠AQ96 ♥A297 ♣Q73 ♣5
4. ♠AKJ65 ♥KQ62 ♦6 ♣A76

1. Three notrump. Obviously, this is a game-going hand once partner opens the bidding, and the only problem is finding the best game contract. Our first two bids were efforts to find a major suit game, since North may have had either four spades or four hearts as part of his opening bid.

However, now that we know this is not the case in the light of North's rebid, it is better to try to play the hand for a notrump game contract. Partner cannot have more than three spades on the bidding, and it would be unwise to undertake a spade game knowing that the opponents have at least six trumps.

2. Pass. Game prospects are not as good as they appear on the surface, and the best thing to do is settle for a part score contract. North has bid rather weakly after opening the bid.

3. Four diamonds. Despite partner's weak bidding there is still a chance for a slam, and while we cannot undertake the slam ourselves, we want to encourage North to bid it if he can.

4. Three clubs. There is a decided possibility of a slam here also. This time in spades, but you are south, both sides vulnerable. Partner may have the wrong type of hand, perhaps something similar to the illustration in the preceding question in which case we would certainly not want to bid in six spades.

How far we eventually go depends on North's response to the cuebid in clubs. He will know we are trying for a slam, but if he shows a lack of interest by bidding three diamonds, all we will then be able to do is jump to four spades.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

FOR TOMORROW: This day's influences should prove highly inspirational to those who are engaged in intellectual, artistic and cultural pursuits. All can have a satisfactory day, however—especially if they make it a point to be tactful. Don't let petty discussions assume major proportions.

FOR THE BIRTHDAY: If tomorrow is your birthday, your horoscope indicates that while you can make some headway, occupationally speaking, between the latter part of this month and late February, also in late March, May and June, you may not receive too much recognition for your efforts until September, when you will enter an excellent 2-month cycle for advancement. To achieve this, however, you may have to work a little harder and, perhaps, extend your sphere of action.

Where finances are concerned, it would be well to follow the conservative path in general, but especially in January and June, when extravagance or speculation could prove disastrous. Best monetary periods: early March, mid-July, October and November.

Personal relationships will be governed by generous influences for most of the year ahead, but be careful to avoid friction—especially in domestic circles—during February and October. Best periods for romance: January, late March, mid-June and September. A child born on this day will be endowed with fine intelligence and extraordinarily good judgment.

Quebec Crime Probe Set To Hit Global Aspects

MONTREAL (CP) — Quebec's current inquiry into alleged fraudulent bankruptcies could spread to crimes of Europe and South America and involve international smuggling of goods and many other kinds of merchandise, it was learned today.

Inquiry hearings are closed to the public, but an informed source said investigations have uncovered—among other things—large-scale smuggling operations from Quebec, Ontario, through Montreal to Paris and other European cities.

The source said it is definitely possible that investigations will be sent to foreign countries to gather evidence. "In general, you can say we will go to any extent to get to the bottom of it."

The disclosure came shortly after two Toronto businessmen were arrested on charges of conspiracy to defraud creditors through a Montreal bankruptcy.

and were released on bail to await preliminary hearing Dec. 17.

SET BAIL — Bail was set at $2,000 for Maxime Kovic, 40, a partner in Acadia Import Company of Toronto, and at $3,000 for Sander Kovic, 40.

Escorted to Montreal Wednesday night by detectives following their arrest in Toronto, they were charged in connection with the bankruptcy of Montreal Wholesale Distributors, an enterprise said to have received in excess of $1,000,000 from creditors of $1,000,000.

Both are to be called later as Crown witnesses at the preliminary hearing of Andre (Andros) Galambos, 28, who is alleged to have operated the business on Montreal's St. Lawrence Boulevard.

Galambos is charged with defrauding his creditors of $30,000 between March 1 and June 5 of this year. His hearing was postponed last month to allow a rogatory commission to go to New York City and question a fourth suspect in the case.

The fourth suspect is alleged to have come to Montreal from France last February and to have joined the Montreal firm as a commission salesman.

Trigger Happy Hunters Target

VICTORIA (CP) — Recreationists hunting this suggested hunters who shoot blindly at a sound in the bush will become targets themselves at the next session of the B.C. legislature.

Mr. Vroman said Wednesday he is disturbed at reports "blind shooting" is on the increase.

"It is difficult to prove such a thing," he said, "but so far as I'm concerned anyone who does it is not fit to have a hunting licence in this or any other province."

He said B.C. has no law specifically banning the practice, only because the legislature in the past even contemplated anyone would be stupid enough to do a thing like that.

UNICEF Spends Millions In Aid — The UN Children's Fund, marking its 10th birthday Friday, reported it has raised and allocated about $400,000,000 to help the children of the world.

Executive Director Maurice Pate said the fund UNICEF has provided "crucially in the form of food, shelter, medical care, education and other necessities" to the children of the world.

FASHIONS DENOUNCED — JAKARTA (AP) — More than 100 girls have been arrested in the West Java town of Turebon for wearing tight skirts and beehive-like hairdos. Similar arrests were made previously after President Sukarno denounced such fashions as the interests of protecting "our own national identity."

Catching Habit Spreads Around Of Burning Down U.S. Libraries

WASHINGTON (AP) — It's become increasingly tempting to certain circles abroad to regard the United States as a target for burning down U.S. libraries.

State Secretary Dean Rusk warned Wednesday that "these violent acts cannot but affect relationships between nations."

In a statement which did not name a country, Rusk said that while the United States is not a target for such attacks, it is not a satisfactory substitute for preventing.

The U.S. State Department said that the overseas arm of the U.S. Information Agency operates 116 libraries, 66 reading rooms and supports 148 centres around the world.

Famous Fleet May Be Sold

SYDNEY, N.S. (CP) — The last three of Canada's once famous black diamond fleet may be sold to Germany.

President J. E. Clark of the Dominion Coal Company said Wednesday the company is negotiating the sale of the last three ships of the fleet.

A Philippine shipping official said that the amount of money involved in the sale of the three vessels would mean an end to Canada's fleet of bulk carriers which numbered 7,000 ships.

The vessels were all built by the Canadian government for war service.

German submarines destroyed the company's fleet, including the last three ships of the fleet.

On all sides of the two Iron Curtains, a young man's personal security and career prospects depend more on him having the expected political opinions than on national patriotism.

Many of the older people are sorry to see this happen, but there is little they can do about it.

In these days of great power, the national patriotism of many countries has to take back seat, even in those with strong national traditions like Korea and Germany.

Rebels Slay More Nuns

LEOPOLDVILLE (Reuters) — Congo rebels have killed two more nuns, the latest in a series of attacks on the American mission in the north of the country.

The source said reports reaching them from Leopoldville said the two nuns had been slain and their bodies thrown in the Congo River.

The American embassy said one of the nuns, identified only by her religious name, Marie Antoinette, was believed to be a U.S. national.

Word of their deaths was received when a missionary from his residence mission in the Congo area. The column brought out 12 white persons.

Ripped-Up Nations Face Problems on Unification

BONN (AP) — Leaders of two countries ripped apart by the East-West conflict met for the first time this week.

If they exchanged any ideas creating the wealth and well-being of the people now under occupation, it's likely to be a long time before they have any practical effect.

Besides the fate of their countries, the two men have little in common. West German Chancellor Ludwig Erhard, 67, is a professional economist turned politician. Park Chung Hee, 50, is a general in the Japanese Army and a general in South Korea's army before he became the leader of its government.

Park was on a formal state visit. The real basis for it lies in West Germany's willingness to give economic aid to South Korea, and South Korea's ability to furnish needed labor to West Germany.

Though both governments are devoted to the idea of reunification, their practical attention is devoted much more to the economic and political aspects of the situation.

As the years go on and a new generation grows up, West Germany and South Korea move closer to their ideological allies.

On all sides of the two Iron Curtains, a young man's personal security and career prospects depend more on him having the expected political opinions than on national patriotism.

Many of the older people are sorry to see this happen, but there is little they can do about it.

Division is sharper — The hot war in Korea brought a sharper division than the cold war in Germany. There is no family existing in Korea, and no family existing in Germany.

In these days of great power, the national patriotism of many countries has to take back seat, even in those with strong national traditions like Korea and Germany.

Large Families Seen As Source For Most Of Workless In U.S.

WASHINGTON (CP) — There are "strong indications that a disproportionate number of the unemployed come from large families," but nothing is being done to verify this, a Labor Secretary, William Wirtz, said Wednesday night.

Wirtz addressed a Canadian-American convention on automation today in the presence of the 21-nation Organization for Economic Co-operation and Development.

Wirtz was generally interpreted in his remarks about the factors of rising unemployment as indicating that family planning should be considered.

'FACTOR NOT CONSIDERED' — He said it is known that almost half the American youth unfit for military service because of inadequate mental capacity or lack of education come from families with six or more children. But no account was being taken of that or of the disproportionate number of the unemployed come from large families with lower than income for doing to verify this, a Labor Secretary, William Wirtz, said Wednesday night.

Damages Against Steel Union Almost Certain To Be Appealed

WASHINGTON (CP) — The $2,350,319 in damages assessed in Quebec against the United Steelworkers of America ranks under a $3,500,000 order levied against the United Mine Workers of America.

But that 1916 decision against the Mine Workers was scaled down to $700,000 the following year by the U.S. Supreme Court.

John L. Lewis, the retired United States labor leader, was nailed personally with a contempt-of-court fine of $10,000 and the union was ordered to pay $3,500,000 as the result of litigation from a prolonged soft-coal strike.

Justice Antoine LaCocque of Quebec Superior Court on Wednesday made his assessment of damages and interest against the Steelworkers as a result of a 1957 strike at Murdochville.

Legal counsel here for the Steelworkers — the headquarters for the international union is in Pittsburgh — declined to comment today on the Quebec decision. But they indicated an appeal is almost certain.

The Mine Workers currently face another round of court cases of U.S. anti-trust charges that could dwarf all previous fines against unions.

The test case is before the U.S. Supreme Court now involving a sum of $250,000. Labor sources said that if this goes against the Mine Workers, a number of other suits would follow adding up to the possibility of fines totalling some $30,000,000.

Beatle Insurance Comes Quite High

LONDON (AP) — An insurance broker disclosed Wednesday that the Beatles pay Britain's highest rate of automobile insurance. It's not that they're bad drivers. They happen to fall into the poorest age bracket risks, 18 to 26, and travel a lot. The broker, who asked not to be named, said they pay an annual premium totalling about £750 ($2,250).

WHEELS ABOARD — OSLO (AP) — Danish bicycles have been ordered for captains of the big tankers of a Norwegian shipping company. Capt. Trygve Christensen of the 96,000-ton tanker Horgen started it when he complained of getting tired making his deck inspections afoot and bought a bike to use aboard.
